A Fantastic Day

Fantastic Land is finally opened in Hong Kong! As yesterday was a public holiday, my parents took me and my sister Amy there. I was really excited because I had never been to a theme park as large as Fantastic Land before.

We arrived in the afternoon. When we were buying the tickets, we were told that children under the age of twelve could receive a special gift bag for free. I was on top of the world when I heard this! After reading the park's brochure, I wanted to go on the cable car. However, Amy wanted to watch the marine show first.

While we were walking to the theatre, a snack kiosk caught our attention. Then Dad bought us an iced drink each. It was very yummy! After that, it was time to go in the theatre and enjoy the show. The show was great as the dolphins performed some tricks with a ball and jumped from hoop to hoop. I thought the seals looked adorable too as they were swaying from side to side to the music on stage. Although I don't like dolphins or seals much, I still had a great time watching the show. When the show ended, the audience cheered and applauded.

Here are some of the photos we took yesterday. The first one is a photo of us having cheeseburgers for lunch before entering the theme park. We took the next photo after watching the marine show. Amy and I are standing at the entrance of the theatre with a cartoon dolphin and seal in the photo. The last one shows the four of us looking out of the cable car windows. It was my favourite part of the day! Sadly, it was also the end of our trip. I enjoyed my time at Fantastic Land! I hope I will visit it again soon!
