An Exciting Day

Hong Kong Adventureland has finally opened! It is the biggest theme park in Asia. I went there yesterday with my cousin Sammy. She studies in America and is back for the summer holiday. We decided to grab the chance and have some fun during her stay.

First we visited the roller coasters when we entered the theme park. They were very high and steep. The largest one even had four loops! My hands started to shake. Then Sammy persuaded me and said, 'Come on, let's give it a try!' I was relaxed again and we joined the queue for a smaller roller coaster.

The queue was quite long, but Sammy really wanted to get on the ride. While we were waiting, she told me about the funny things that happened to her during her time in America. I couldn't stop laughing as they were really amusing! Since I got a new mobile phone, we took some photos too. Around half an hour later, we were at the front row of the roller coaster. I was nervous again, but Sammy encouraged me. We both thought the ride was fun and thrilling. After the ride, Sammy shouted loudly, 'Sharon, you did it! I'm so proud of you!' She was like a cheerleader sometimes.

Here are some photos we took. There is a photo of us having dim sum in a Chinese restaurant before going to the theme park. Here is another photo of us standing in front of two cute cartoon bears when we were about to enter the theme park. The one I liked best is when we were on the smaller roller coaster. It was taken by the camera along the tracks of the roller coaster. Sammy and I are waving our hands in the air and our mouths are wide open. It is such a funny photo! We look forward to coming back to this theme park again!
