Yesterday, I went to a restaurant for lunch with my mum and dad. After we ordered some food, we waited for a long time. Then I started to get bored and played with the bowl and chopsticks. My mum told me to stop but I did not listen to her.

A waitress came and tried to put a teapot on our table. Suddenly, my arm hit the teapot and the hot tea spilt on her hand. I said sorry to her. I will not play at the table when I am in a restaurant next time.

Very Good!

Yesterday, my parents and I went out for lunch. We went to a Japanese restaurant which was famous for its yummy sushi. I was very excited!

When we arrived at the restaurant, we ordered some food. We waited for it for more than 20 minutes. Then I started to get bored and hit the bowl with the chopsticks. My mum was angry with me because I was making a lot of noise and she thought it was rude. She told me to stop but I did not listen to her.

A waitress came and served us some hot tea. While I was playing, my arm knocked over the teapot and spilt the hot tea on her hand. Then it burnt her hand and she was in a lot of pain. I was sorry for what I did, so I apologised to her. The next time I go to a restaurant, I will not play with the things on the table again.

More difficult vocabulary is used to express similar meaning, for example, using 'parents' instead of 'mum and dad' and using 'apologise' instead of 'say sorry'.

The accident is described in detail including the characters and the writer's feelings.
