How to Do Well in Paper Cutting

Paper cutting is a traditional Chinese art. The beautiful cut-outs are often pasted on doors and windows during the Spring Festival. They may seem easy to make. However, it is actually more than you can imagine. Here are a few tips to help you do well in paper cutting.

(i)

Many people are inclined to just pick up a pair of scissors and then start paper cutting. Yet the results are usually different from what they want. According to Dickson Wong, a paper cutting expert, most people do paper cutting like they are cutting up scrap paper. They do not care about the exact sizes and shapes. They merely start with imagination. Instead of rushing to cut paper, it is important to learn the basic technique and mark sizes and shapes. This is also the foundation of the whole paper cutting process.

(ii)

Straight lines are often used in paper cutting. In fact, straight lines are preferably to be drawn by hand or cut directly instead of using a ruler. If you rely too much on rulers, the lines will be difficult to blend in with other patterns. Therefore, use a ruler appropriately. Consider whether to use it when you draw straight lines.

(iii)

You need to concentrate when doing paper cutting. Sometimes the paper is small. It is difficult to cut the paper and you may make mistakes if you do not pay attention. Also, it is easy to get hurt when you get distracted. Some people like to do this work while watching television. They may think 'I don't care about the scissors as the plot is so amazing'. It is very dangerous to act like this indeed.

(iv)

To sum up, learning the basic technique, paying attention to the use of rulers and staying focused can help you do well in paper cutting. Remember to practise more. Your skills will get better and better before you notice.

A Nice Weekend

The Auto Theme Park in our downtown area is finally open! The park has attracted many visitors since its opening because of its new facilities. It is not far from my home. I took my younger brother John to the park last weekend as he did well in the final exam. We were very happy because it was the first time for us to go to a park with the theme of automobiles.

After breakfast, we arrived at the entrance of the park. By that time, there were already many visitors queuing up to buy tickets. When it was our turn, the ticket seller told us that in order to celebrate the upcoming Children's Day, children under 10 could enjoy a 50% discount this month. Therefore, John got a ticket for half the original price. He jumped with joy as he could use the rest of the money to buy an ice cream. When we got into the park, John wanted to go to the mini racing area with obstacles. Then we walked there along the pathway.

A pond suddenly came into view. It was full of lotus flowers. We stopped and took a picture. After that we bought two sandwiches at the store we passed by. The sandwiches were so good that we bought two more. We were stunned when we saw the mini racing area. The obstacles there were designed to be very challenging. At first, John was worried that he could not finish the race. I encouraged him while helping him with his safety helmet. Even though some curves were really difficult to cross, John and I were excited as we finally reached the finishing line.

We took a lot of pictures in the park. The first one shows that John and I were enjoying the ice cream. The weather was hot and it was really refreshing to have something cold. Another picture is John and I taking a rest by the pond. We felt very relaxed sitting there and it was also my most enjoyable moment. The next picture shows John and I in the mini racing area. I like this picture best. We were crossing the finishing line together! I remember we high-fived each other as we succeeded in overcoming all obstacles! We had a great time last weekend and look forward to visiting the park again!
