

Learn more words.

Write the missing letters.

Read the book report.

The Giving Tree tells the story of a tree who loves a little boy, and the boy takes and takes from the tree.

When the boy was young, the apple tree played with him every day. But the boy seldom came to the tree as he grew older. Later in life, he visited the tree and told her that he had no money. The tree asked him to pick her apples to sell. When he asked the tree for a house, she let him cut off her branches. Even when the boy wanted a boat, she let him cut her trunk.

All the tree wanted was for the boy to be happy. It was a great story.

5

10

Jenny Chan P4A

15

Test your understanding.

1. Who wrote the book report?

- A. Jack Smith
- B. Mike Dean
- C. Jenny Chan
- D. Shel Silverstein

2. The tree and the boy are like _____.

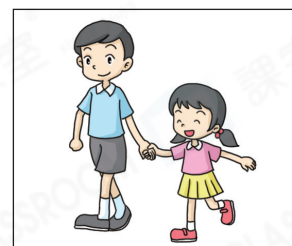

A.

B.

C.

D.

3. Read lines 7-9. Why did the boy come to the tree again?

- A. He missed the tree.
- B. He wanted to play with it.
- C. He wanted to ask for help.
- D. He wanted to have some apples.

4. In the end, the boy was too old to climb the tree.

What might the tree do to the boy?

- A. ask him to go away
- B. ask him to rest on her
- C. tell him he was selfish
- D. tell him she could do nothing for him

5. What does the story tell us?

- A. Being selfish is bad.
- B. We should be good to trees.
- C. Share your things with children.
- D. We should give love but not only take love.

