Today I went on a camping trip. This time I went with children I did not know so I was very excited. The campsite was on a hill. It was very tiring to walk with heavy bags. I wanted to give up halfway but a girl called Linda cheered me up and talked to me on the way.

Once we arrived at the site, we formed teams. I was glad to have Linda in my team. We played group games and had dinner together. Before bedtime, we had a night adventure. We had to walk around the campsite. It was very dark at the site. My face turned white and I sweated a lot. Linda knew my fear and held my hand tight during the night adventure. I was touched.

The camping trip was tiring, but I had many joyful moments with Linda. I hope our friendship will last long.

Ann and Sally were good friends. They were classmates in kindergarten. They did everything together just like real sisters. They went fishing along the river near their houses every Saturday. Then, they made dinner with their catch.

One Saturday, as usual, they sat next to the river and waited for their catch. Suddenly, a monkey jumped out from Ann's back. It scared Sally so much that she stepped backwards and fell into the river. Luckily, she got hold of a floating wood. She told Ann, 'Go home, Ann! It's too dangerous here!' 'No, Sally, I can't leave you alone!' replied Ann. At that very moment, Ann saw a long rope near the river. She quickly threw the rope to Sally. 'Hold the rope, Sally! I'll try my best to save you!' said Ann. Sally held the rope and Ann pulled her out of the river! They hugged each other tightly and were glad to have each other as friends.
