26th March 20XX

5 It was Sports Day today. We went to Kowloon Bay Sports Ground by coach. Our class could stay together as the coach was for thirty people. My classmate Charlie and I joined the 60m race. We practised a lot before the competition but we were still very nervous. We really wanted to win the race.

10 'Ready, set, go!' Mr Pang shouted. We ran as fast as we could towards the finishing line. Unluckily, I tripped and fell over. Charlie turned around and ran towards me to see if I was fine. I told him to carry on and finish the race but he said he didn't mind not finishing the race. 'It is just a competition. It is more important that you are not hurt,' he said.

15 At that moment, a tear dropped down my face. I gave Charlie a hug and patted him on his back. Mr Pang and Charlie carried me off the track. I rested and got better. Although we didn't get any medals today, I felt grateful for having such a great friend. Charlie is my lifelong friend!
