

Dan is writing an e-mail to his friend about a bad dining experience.

To : From :

Subject :

Hi May,

I didn't come to school today because I felt sick after yesterday's dinner.

My brother and I dined at a terrible restaurant called Yummy San last night. We ordered a lot of food, such as California rolls, tempura and soba noodles. The soba noodles were fair but I wasn't happy with the tempura. It wasn't crispy at all. Then the waiter recommended us to try the fruit juice that was said to be fresh and tasty. But it tasted so bitter! The worst thing was both of us had diarrhoea once we got home! I thought it was because the food wasn't fresh enough. What made me even angrier was that the meal cost a bomb! I spent more than half of my pocket money for the dinner!

I feel a bit better now. I hope I can go to school tomorrow.

Best,

Dan

Choose the best answers by blackening the circles.

- Dan emailed May to tell her _____. (Choose more than one answer.)
 - A. why he didn't go to school today
 - B. to dine at Yummy San
 - C. about his bad dining experience the night before
 - D. what he didn't like to eat
- What kind of restaurant did Dan go to?
 - A. American
 - B. Chinese
 - C. Japanese
 - D. Thai

Q2

What did Dan order at the restaurant?

- In the e-mail, the words 'cost a bomb' mean '_____'.
 - A. to be very expensive
 - B. to be nasty
 - C. to be angry
 - D. to be harmful

- (a) Dan ate some tempura.
- (b) Dan emailed May.
- (c) Dan didn't go to school.
- (d) Dan had diarrhoea.