

In-text Grammar

We use the simple future tense to talk about things that will happen in the future.

e.g. Karen : What will you do tomorrow?

Steve : Karl and I will go prawn fishing in Yuen Long.

Elle and Joe are talking on the phone about visiting Hong Kong.

Elle : Joe, when will you visit Hong Kong?

Joe : I'll set off next week.

Elle : Where will you go first?

Joe : Tsim Sha Tsui. Because it is near my hotel.

5 Elle : What will you do there?

Joe : I'll go shopping and have some street snacks.

Elle : The street snacks there are so-so. Only some of them are tasty. What kinds of snacks will you try?

10 Joe : Maybe the popular curry fish balls and egg tarts. What else do you recommend?

Elle : Egg waffles. They are my favourite! I couldn't forget the crispy crust of the one I tried in Mong Kok!

Joe : Wow! I look forward to trying them. By the way, I will visit the Peak at night on the second day.

15 Elle : That's a good idea! You'll surely be stunned by the beautiful night view like I was.

Joe : I can't wait to take a lot of photos of the night view! Let me show them to you when I come back.
